MEDIA ADVISORY For Tuesday, January 20, 2014

The James R. Jordan Foundation to host first Junior Board Informational Make 2015 the year to give others an opportunity to “Dream Big”

Chicago (January 09, 2015) – Attention all Young Philanthropists, Entrepreneurs and Community Leaders, The James R. Jordan Foundation (JRJF) will host an informational session for its first Junior Professional Board. Make 2015 the year to make a difference in Chicago’s underdeveloped communities by sharing in our mission and vision to Strengthen Families through Education and Partnerships by leveling the playing field for our future generation so they may continue to “Dream Big.”

WHO: Olga Jewusiak, Director of Development for The James R. Jordan Foundation
Informational host alongside the JRJF Team

WHERE: 737 N Michigan Ave. 20th Floor
Neiman Marcus Building Chicago Avenue Entrance

WHEN: Tuesday, January 20, 2014, 5:30-7:00pm

WHAT: Junior Board Informational Session

WHY: For the past 15 years, JRJF’s educational programs have made high school graduation and a college education possible for thousands of talented, low-income youth in Chicago’s West Haven and Englewood communities, and in Aurora, Illinois. Our vision for 2015-2016 is to expand programing in order to increase the amount of students that go on to college not only in the current communities we serve but also additional communities throughout the Chicago areas in order to bridge the digital divide and attempt to ensure equal access to equal education across the board. A Junior Professional Board is instrumental in helping us reach these goals via various philanthropic means.

About the James R. Jordan Foundation

The James R. Jordan Foundation is dedicated to strengthening families, motivating youth and ensuring high quality academic opportunities for children in underdeveloped communities. The James R. Jordan Foundation Vision for Families – our series of family and academic programs – is guided by the belief that a strong family plays a major role in a child’s academic success, and that education provides a path out of poverty. www.jamesjordanfoundation.org
